Yellow Avalanche

These Hardy Garden Mums are easily grown and will tolerate endless neglect and still produce bloom.

For best results, plant in a sunny location in a rich, well drained soil. Water well during the hot summer. Also, once a month during June, July and August place a handful of any complete fertilizer around each plant. You'll have a wealth of bloom this Fall for home decoration.

Sturdy pot grown plants shipped to you with the soil still on the roots.

Plants of same price may be ordered at group price.

HOW TO GROW GERANIUMS

GERANIUMS OUTDOORS

Soil: Any garden that will grow common annual or perennial plants will grow Geraniums. If the soil is too rich, Geraniums produce soft, leggy branches, dense foliage and a scarcity of bloom. If the soil is too poor, they produce pale foliage and small blooms. Ideal soil is slightly acid (about pH 6.5), 3 parts clay loam, 1 part coarse sand, and 1 part organic matter.

Sun: Geraniums require a lot of sunshine, yet, if at all possible, they should be shaded during the hottest part of the day to produce the best flowers. Geraniums will not do well in complete shade.

Water: When the soil appears dry, soak to a depth of at least 6 inches. It is much better to soak the ground once or twice a week than to sprinkle the soil every day. Always water early enough in the day so that the foliage will be dry by night.

Space: For beautiful beds allow only 8 inches in all directions for spreading. Pinching the tops of each plant will promote branching but will delay blooming several weeks.

Fertilizers: Bonemeal is excellent; mix in a liberal amount while preparing your soil. For additional feeding we recommend Plant Marvel.

Geraniums growing outdoors will drop most of their foliage if dug and potted for inside use during the winter. It is better to take cuttings from the older plants and start with fresh plants for indoor growing. Take cuttings, anytime, 4 to 6 inches long from strong branches that have leaves growing close together. Remove the leaves far enough up the stem to allow the cutting to stand upright when placed in moist sand. This sand should be about 4 inches deep in a box placed in a sunny spot. Cut a narrow trench in the sand and stick the cuttings to a depth of about 2 inches, then pat the sand firmly. Keep the sand moist; roots should appear in 3 weeks.

GERANIUMS INDOORS

Soil: Mix together 3 parts good garden soil and 1 part peat moss, pack dirt firmly around plants. Have the soil moist, but not wet, when potting.

Containers: Repot our 2¼-inch plants in 3-inch pots. Do not use too large a pot for Geraniums, they bloom best when a little pot bound. It is better to repot the plants, increasing the size pot each time. Leave at least ½-inch space at the top of each pot for watering, leave more room for larger containers. Always have good drainage.

Sun: To bloom indoors, Geraniums must have direct sun. Place them as close to the glass as possible.

Water: Do not allow the soil to become water-logged or soggy. Once a week, especially on a sunny day, soak the plant. The rest of the time only enough to keep it from drying out.

Feeding: Do not feed unless the plants have stopped growing or the foliage is too pale. Use any good fertilizer. If you use Vigoro, put a small pinch on top of the soil before watering the plants. We like to use Plant Marvel—it is completely soluble in water. Do not over-feed—Geraniums do not require heavy fertilization.

Geraniums grown indoors during the winter may be planted outside in the spring, after the danger of frost is past.

LADY WASHINGTON GERANIUMS

By nature these Geraniums bloom only during the spring and summer. Their beauty is well worth the wait!

Use potting mixture and general cultural directions mentioned above with the following suggestions for best results.

Repot our plants in 4-inch pots. Lady Washingtons require more root room.

Most essential for beautiful bloom is a low nightly temperature 50 to 52 degrees while the buds are setting on.

For outdoor planting partial or near shade is best with east side of trees the best location.

For growing over winter cut plants back severely and place in cool spot 40 to 50 degrees and water sparingly, perhaps every 10 days.

About February 1, loosen soil, fertilize, and move to 60 degrees sunny location. Feed plant ever two weeks until mid May with any good plant food, prepared for house plants, according to directions. You may then transfer them to your garden.
